Sunday Reflection

Immense Danger In this age of terrorist attacks and threats and so much unthinking violence in the world, it is easy to imagine Herod's otherwise appalling pogrom against the children in Bethlehem and surroundings. He was simply trying to destroy the Christ child.

Get to know and to love the others in your family, whether they have grown up and left home or not.

But it was hard to find the right infant. So Herod thought he might as well slay all the newborn babies just to make sure, and apparently this included the girl babies as well. Mary and Joseph were under obligation to run from this destructive campaign, and run they did, to Egypt, until the danger was past.

Immense danger.

If you are part of a family, you too must take great care today. The family unit is in peril, chased down and slain by the Herods of modern culture.

Television has almost no shows that depict successful families. Advertising pushes us to fill our own personal needs, to load up on pleasure, to buy products that make life easier, to eliminate being bothered. Many or most movies show uncommitted sex in detail and with approval. Of course everyone knows that more than 50% of marriages today end in divorce. Latchkey children, two-job families, a commercially created teenage world which stands in direct opposition to values and family. Watch MTV sometime.

The same could be said of cell phones as a type of God even at the dinner meal. Families go into trances to make their cell phones more important than talking with the family.

Since the objective of advertisers has long been to "define us as consumers," is it any wonder that Americans are the most overweight population in the world with other countries eating their way to second place?

Maybe you grew up ok. Psychologists tell us all we need is a "good-enough" family, as opposed to a perfect one. You are blessed if you did have one. But many people were raised in what is called a "dysfunctional family," where values are grossly but subliminally skewed, to the extreme detriment of all involved. Portions of the coming generations will be twisted, whether they know it or not, because all families in the United States are in trouble, big trouble. Maybe you are not one of them, but then again maybe you are.

Jesus was born into a good family, though poverty-stricken, but nevertheless a human microcosm of God's life. Love bestowed and love received, as within the Trinity. Care for a new and helpless infant. A fond gaze into its eyes, the kind that bestows a first fragile identity. People "putting themselves out" for each other. The feast of the Holy Family is placed so close to Christmas in order to show how crucial are love and care to human lives in their beginnings, and their continuing's as well.

Being in a family is no easy job. All parents are amateurs when they start off. What can they do about today's great assault on family and Christian/human values? For one thing, be willing to spend time even when it is scarce. Be willing to give up some of their own fascinations for the sake of others. Commit and do not relent. Defer to sensitivities.

In other words, imitate the Holy Family. Get to know and to love the others in your family, whether they have grown up and left home or not. Every value-rooted family builds another entrenchment against the ghastly degradation of this most important foundation-stone of human life.

We all want to be part of the great web of love that is God's presence on earth. It is played out in the foibles and fun of ordinary family life. God is there.

John Foley, SJ

Discussion Question: How far will you step out of your comfort zone for your family?

Family Connection

In the midst of the Christmas season, it is quite appropriate that our liturgy asks us to pause to consider the Holy Family. In today's Gospel, we hear about how Joseph protected Jesus from danger by relocating the family to Egypt in obedience to God. Following the model of the Holy Family, we might use this feast to recall the responsibility that each family member has to contribute to the good of the family and recommit ourselves to one another.

Gather together as a family to work on a common project. You might prepare a meal together, prepare a special dessert, or perhaps do a craft together. When you finish, talk about how each family member contributed to the common project. Remind one another that each member of the family contributes to the good of the whole family. Recall that Jesus was also part of a family and that this Sunday we celebrate the Holy Family of Jesus, Mary, and Joseph.

Read together today's Gospel, Matthew 2:13-15, 19-23. Pray together that your family will continue to protect and care for one another as Mary and Joseph protected and cared for Jesus.

Prayer to the Holy Family

Jesus, Mary and Joseph, in you we contemplate the splendor of true love, to you we turn with trust.

Holy Family of Nazareth, grant that our families too may be places of communion and prayer, authentic schools of the Gospel and small domestic Churches.

Holy Family of Nazareth, may families never again experience violence, rejection and division: may all who have been hurt or scandalized find ready comfort and healing.

Jesus, Mary and Joseph, graciously hear our prayer. Amen

How can we act as a Holy Family

To act as a holy family, one can follow the teachings of the Holy Family of Jesus, Mary, and Joseph, which emphasize love, faith, and the practice of virtues. Here are some ways to embody the Holy Family's teachings:

- Follow God's Laws Together: Emulate the Holy Family's adherence to Jewish practices and the Church's precepts, such as going to Mass, fasting, and tithing.
- Practice the Virtues Together: Cultivate virtues like patience, generosity, and humility within the family.
- Be Present and Loving: Show up in the lives of family members, offering love and support through all the ups and downs of life.
- Educate and Inspire: Share the Holy Family's example with children and others, teaching them about love, faith, and the importance of family life.

- Support the Church: Assist in the material needs of the Church, reflecting the Holy Family's commitment to supporting the community.

By following these steps, families can strive to embody the Holy Family's teachings and contribute to a more holy and loving community.

Relationships Strengthen Families, Such as Holy Family, and Church

By Msgr. Joseph Prior

The commercial came on the television. It showed short video clips of a man and woman falling in love, getting married, having a baby, then clips of the family as the child, grew, graduated, fell in love and got married. I'm not sure how effective the commercial was because I cannot remember what it was advertising, but it captured some of the beauty of family life.

Of course it did not capture other moments such as when sickness comes into play or the struggles of adolescent years. This may cause some to say that it sentimentalizes the subject, which may be true. But it does reflect a certain aspect of family life and love — that of being present throughout life, loving through the years in all the varied ways that love takes shape and form.

This Sunday we celebrate the Holy Family. My mother used to love this feast day. It was important to her and she did all she could to live out its meaning in our family life. It is one of those occasions for me to be reminded of the practical impact faith has in the life of the faithful.

Families are not chosen by us; God has provided them for us. The relationships within a family are wide and varied.

Granted, no family is perfect but the family and the individuals who are part of it are called to be perfected in love. The bonds that are created in a healthy family are strong. The members sense, from their earliest years, the strength that comes from a loving home. The example of love through the joys and sorrows, the triumphs and tragedies, of life can propel the next generation to be instruments of that love.

Sadly, not everyone has this experience as it is challenging to have a strong family life today. Yet we rejoice and are uplifted when a family strives to be what it is called to be. The Feast of the Holy Family of Jesus, Mary and Joseph offers us that call this Sunday.
